Future Directions is of interest to CDT teachers.

We consider the impact of new technologies on the fur trade and the ways in which this makes fur a more flexible material. As a result of this flexibility, modern designers are using fur in innovative ways. We hear from young designers about their enthusiasm for fur and how they are using it in their clothes.

There are information sheets on the new technologies and on fashion and fur.

There is a video showing some of the fantastic ideas that today's young designers have come up with.
